

RU-tv Stories

Natalie James is a senior at Rutgers majoring in Journalism & Media Studies.

What's one interesting fact about yourself?

I play the ukulele.

What is your role at RU-tv? What does it entail?

I am the Supervisor/Producer for Wake Up Rutgers and the Studio Training Mentor. I produce a live morning television show 2 days a week, and I make sure every employee knows how to use the studio.

Why did you choose to come to RU-tv? (Is it related to your major?)

RU-tv started off as just a hobby that I liked because of the Living Learning Community and the people I met there, but then I came to love it and the rest is history!

Why did you choose to come to Rutgers?

When I visited a friend on campus and went to Rutgers Day my senior year of high school, I fell in love with the campus, the city, the people, and the overall vibe of New Brunswick.

What do you hope to do after you graduate?

Be famous. Also have a successful docu-series on HBO.

How will your work at RU-tv help you in the future?

All the experience in and outside of the office will help. Additionally, the fact that I've been able to network and get to know other talented students helps.

What is your favorite part about working at RU-tv?

My favorite part is going live and the short debriefings we have afterwards. My crew has grown so much since they've started and it's a beautiful thing to watch.
